W: Hello, students. Our annual school talent show is coming soon. I'm glad that so many talented students signed up for the audition. Now, I'd like to give you some tips on how to prepare for it. First, practice your lines, your dance moves, or your songs over and over until you memorize them perfectly. After that, rehearse with your friends or in front of a mirror. Practicing again and again will help you feel confident during the audition. Finally, wear clothes you'll feel comfortable in. You can bring your own costumes if you want. I wish all of you good luck and hope you shine on the stage. Thank you.

M: Honey, where did you get all these potatoes?
W: My friend Jennifer runs a potato farm, so she gave me some.
M: This is a lot! Let's put them in the refrigerator.
W: Oh, no. Storing potatoes in a refrigerator gives them an unpleasant taste.
M: Okay. Where should we keep them?
W: They should be stored in a cool and dark place.
M: Then the basement would be good.
W: That's perfect, but we also need to take the potatoes out of the plastic bag. Potatoes rot easily in plastic bags.
M: I see. And I remember reading an article saying that storing potatoes with an apple keeps them from sprouting.
W: Really? That's good to know.
M: I'll bring an apple, and we can keep them together.

M: Hi, Kate. How do you feel today?
W: I feel better, but I still have a sore throat. How does my voice sound?

W: Thanks. Did you hear about one of the audio books we recorded in this studio last year?

M: You mean "The Dreaming Tree?" I heard it was the best-selling audio book of the year.
 W: It was. The sound effects you added made the story feel alive.
 M: Thank you. Most of all, your voice acting was great in the various roles.
 W: I'm flattered. Okay, I think I'm ready now. Is this the script for the radio drama we're working on today?
 M: Yes. We can begin once you step into the recording booth. I'll check the microphone.
 W: All right. I'll start when you give me the signal.

M: Ms. Morgan, how's the preparation for the school talk show going?
 W: I've finished setting up the stage. How do you like it?
 M: Great! I like the banner for the talk show at the top between the curtains.
 W: Thanks. What do you think about the picture under the banner?
 M: I think the image of the laptop computer and the lock is perfect for the talk show on "Information Security."
 W: I think the picture shows the topic clearly.
 M: It does. You put two stereo speakers below the picture.
 W: Yes. They're the ones we bought recently for the show.
 M: Okay. The students will sit and talk on those chairs on the round carpet, right?
 W: Exactly. I also put a white board next to the standing microphone. Students have asked me to set that up.
 M: Great! I'll be looking forward to the event.

 W: No, but I borrowed a nice one from my cousin. And I ordered the guide book you recommended.
 M: That's good. It'll be very useful. You seem to be all set for your trip.
 W: Almost. I've renewed my passport and booked the flight. But I haven't decided on a hotel yet.
 M: How come?
 W: Because there are so many different options. It's difficult to find the right deal.
 M: Why don't you use mobile applications to compare the hotel prices? It'll save you time and money.

 M: Oh, I've watched a travel TV show about that restaurant.
 W: Have you?

M: Yes. It said it's so popular among the local people that they have to wait in a long line to get in.
W: I know. I don't like crowded places, but I think it'll be worth the wait because of its long tradition. The family's been running it since 1890.
M: Wow, that long?
W: Yes. I like old places that maintain their tradition. It's far from my hotel, but I'm willing to go anyway.

W: I already have that model, but it's too heavy to carry around.

W: Yeah. That makes sense.
M: You can get this one. It also has a battery life of 100 hours.
W: It's nice, but it's not foldable. I want to buy that one, instead.

W: Hello, everyone! Today, I want you to consider this: do you have something you're not using in your home? Then, how about sharing it with others? It enables products to be recycled and reused, reducing the negative effects on the environment. For example, if you have a nice dress for a party, lend it to others who need it. Then the materials used in making a new dress can be saved. The same thing with toys. Every year, millions of toys that children no longer play with are thrown away. By sharing things with others, you can reduce waste. Also, you can benefit financially by sharing your goods. If you have books you've finished reading, register them on online sharing systems. Then, someone who wants to read your books can rent them and you can make money by sharing. Similarly, if you need a bicycle, you can find some people who share theirs on bike-sharing systems and save money. Why don't you awaken your "sleeping" goods?
